POLICY

SECURITIES TRADING BY DIRECTORS AND EMPLOYEES OF NEUREN PHARMACEUTICALS LIMITED

1. INTRODUCTION

In order to preserve the reputation and integrity of Neuren Pharmaceuticals Limited, it is vital that when people associated with Neuren deal in the company's securities, those dealings are not only fair, but are seen to be fair. When Directors and Employees deal in securities of Neuren they must be sure that it does not reflect badly on them or Neuren. The following policy is designed to avoid the possibility that misconceptions, misunderstandings or suspicions might arise.

2. DEFINITIONS

"Associates" means any Director (or Employee) controlled entity (including trusts and companies). It does not include parents, spouses, dependants and children who are not Director or Employee controlled but act on their own initiative without reference to the Director or Employee. In such cases, the Director or Employee should advise these persons that a risk exists that a Court could find a relevant association or that even without such an association, innuendo could arise if transactions occur outside the relevant Trading Period.

"ASX" means the Australian Securities Exchange.

"Director" means a director of Neuren Pharmaceuticals Limited or any of its subsidiaries.

"Employee" means a person employed by Neuren.

"Neuren" means Neuren Pharmaceuticals Limited and its subsidiaries.

"Securities" means securities in Neuren quoted on the ASX, and any derivatives and other financial products that can be traded on a financial market and which are issued or created over Neuren securities.

"Short Term Trading of Securities" means the buying and selling of the same Securities within the Period during which trading is permitted under this policy.

3. TRADING PERIOD

3.1. Directors and Employees (and their Associates) of Neuren and its subsidiaries may only buy or sell Securities in a period commencing 24 hours after:

3.1.2. Neuren releases its half yearly profit results to the ASX;

3.1.3. Neuren releases its yearly profit results to the ASX;

3.1.4. the conclusion of the Annual General Meeting of Neuren;

and limited to a period of 42 days thereafter ("the Trading Period").

- 3.2. All other times outside of the Trading Period is a Closed Period during which trading of Securities is prohibited, except in exceptional circumstances as noted below.
- 3.3. Notwithstanding the Trading Periods described above, Neuren may declare a Closed Period closed at any time at its absolute discretion and without prior notice. For example, this may occur where the Board of Directors of Neuren believes it holds non-public price sensitive information relating to Neuren.
- 3.4. There is to be no Short Term Trading of Securities.

4. EXCLUDED TRADING

- 4.1. The following shall be excluded from the operation of this Policy:
 - 4.1.1. transfers of Securities which result in no change in the beneficial interest in the Securities;

 - 4.1.4. undertakings to accept, or the acceptance of, a takeover offer;
 - 4.1.5. trading under an offer or invitation made to all or most of the security holders, such as, a rights issue, a share purchase plan, a dividend or distribution reinvestment plan and an equal access buy-back, where the plan that determines the timing and structure of the offer has been approved by the board. This includes decisions relating to whether or not to take up the entitlements and the sale of entitlements required to provide for the take up of the balance of entitlements under a renounceable pro rata issue;

 - 4.1.8. trading under a non-discretionary trading plan for which prior written clearance has been provided by the Board and:

APPENDIX

INSIDER TRADING

It should be remembered that the insider trading provisions of Australian and New Zealand law will always override any policy of Neuren. This policy is a guide only and the insider trading provisions must still be observed. Those provisions prohibit any trading in securities by a person who possesses information in relation to those securities that is not generally available, and that information is of a nature that a reasonable person would expect it to have material effect on the price or value of securities of the relevant body corporate. Trading is also prohibited where a person who possesses the information relating to securities knows or ought to reasonably know that:

- the information is not generally available; and
- if it were generally available it might have a material effect on the price or value of those securities.

It is a defence to a prosecution for insider trading if at the time of the alleged offence, the “insider information” was generally available. The law specifies that information is generally available if:

- it consists of readily observable matter; or
- it has been made known in a manner that would or would be likely to bring the information to the attention of persons who commonly invest in the securities of a kind whose price or value might be affected by the information; and
- since it was so made known, a reasonable period for it to be disseminated among such persons has elapsed.

The periods of time within which trading can be effected, as established under this policy, are a guide only. If a person trades in Securities and at the time of trading the person possesses information relating to Securities and knows or ought to reasonably know that:

- the information is not generally available;
- if it were generally available it might have a material effect on the price or value of the Securities; the person will have committed an offence under the insider trading provisions of Australian and New Zealand law, irrespective of whether or not the person has traded within the periods of time specified within the policy.

The prohibitions on trading noted above extend to procuring another person to deal in Securities and also to communicating inside information to another person if the Director or Employee knows, or ought reasonably to know, that the other person would, or would likely to deal in the Securities or procure another person to do so.

A Director or Employee in possession of information that might have a material effect on the price of the Securities has a duty to keep that information confidential and must not in any way disclose or communicate that information to any person. Confidentiality is also stressed in relation to external advisers.
