

Neuren (NEU) – ASX announcement

20 November 2023

Comment on media speculation

Melbourne, Australia: Neuren Pharmaceuticals (ASX: NEU) notes an article published in the Australian newspaper, which stated “Neuren Pharmaceuticals is understood to have brought in a defence adviser after fielding buyer interest from US-based industry giants”.

Neuren appointed a corporate and strategic adviser several months ago. The appointment was a normal step in Neuren’s ongoing growth and development and not in response to any approaches from third parties. Media speculation to the contrary is unfounded.

About Neuren

Neuren is developing new drug therapies to treat multiple serious neurological disorders that emerge in early childhood and have no or limited approved treatment options.

DAYBUE™ (trofinetide) is approved by the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for the treatment of Rett syndrome in adult and pediatric patients two years of age and older. Neuren has granted an exclusive worldwide licence to Acadia Pharmaceuticals Inc. for the development and commercialisation of trofinetide.

Neuren is conducting Phase 2 trials of its second drug candidate, NNZ-2591, for each of Phelan-McDermid syndrome, Angelman syndrome, Pitt Hopkins syndrome and Prader-Willi syndrome.

Recognising the urgent unmet need, all programs have been granted “orphan drug” designation in the United States. Orphan drug designation provides incentives to encourage development of therapies for rare and serious diseases.
